

Mistil Pritchett Griffith roots run deep in Ellijay. Born and raised in the town, parents, Tim Pritchett and Diane Jones, were both Gilmer High graduates and successful entrepreneurs. Mistil graduated from Gilmer High School in 1995 and pursued a career in Radiologic Science. She worked at Advent Health and Hamilton Medical Center in radiology, specializing in CT And MRI. While her career in healthcare was fulfilling, Mistil's true passion has always been health and wellness. Her desire to help others led her to become a Certified Health and Life Coach. She holds numerous certifications in the fitness industry. In early 2022, Mistil fulfilled a dream by opening City Barre Ellijay Fitness & Boutique. Located in historic downtown Ellijay. In addition to running the studio, Mistil is a real estate agent who represents Atlanta Communities Mountain Living in the North Georgia area. In 2020 Mistil and her husband purchased the Payne-Poindexter House, a historic home in downtown Ellijay, built in 1890. Known as the "Pink house" this iconic residence has been a long-time fixture of the community. Restoring the home has been a labor of love, blending their appreciation for history with their desire to contribute to Ellijay's future.
